Making Foreign Direct Investment Work

A foreign direct investment happens when a corporation or individual invests and owns at least ten percent of a foreign company. 2 When an American tech company opens a data center in India, it makes an FDI. The BEA tracks U.S. FDIs. Many developing countries need FDI to facilitate economic growth or repair.

Global Value Chains Directions In Development

Foreign direct investment (FDI) is when a company owns another company in a different country. FDI is different from when companies simply put their money into assets in another country—what economists call portfolio investment. With FDI, foreign companies are directly involved with day-to-day operations in the other country.
